PRIMARY 3 NIGERIAN HISTORY LESSON NOTES

FIRST TERM

WEEK 1: MEANING OF HISTORY.

OBJECTIVES By the end of the lesson, pupils should be able to:

- Define history in simple terms.
- Explain why history is the study of the past.
- List three sources of history.
- Mention one reason why we learn about the past.

CONTENT

What is History? History is the study of past events. It is like a big storybook about people, places, and things that have already happened. It tells us about yesterday, last year, or even hundreds of years ago.

Think about your own life. You have a story about when you were a baby—you couldn't walk or talk! That is your personal history. In the same way, our country, Nigeria, has its own big story about how it started, who the first people were, and how things have changed over time.

History as the Study of the Past The "past" means all the time that has already gone by. Everything that happened before this very moment is part of the past—what you ate for breakfast, what you did in school yesterday, and what your grandparents did when they were children.

History helps us collect, remember, and understand all these past events. It organizes them so we can learn from them, just like how you arrange your toys in a box to find them easily.

Sources of History: How Do We Know About the Past? We cannot use a time machine to go back and see the past. So, how do we know what happened? We use clues called sources. A source is anything that gives us information about the past.

- Oral Traditions (Stories): These are stories spoken aloud and passed down from older people to younger people.
- Example: When your grandmummy tells you a story about how she walked miles to fetch water from the river when she was a girl, that is oral history.
- Example: Folktales about clever animals like Tortoise are also a form of oral tradition.
- Written Sources: These are words that have been written down on paper or other materials.
- Example: Your textbook is a written source.
- Example: Old diaries, letters, government records, and newspapers.
- Example: The Bible or Quran are written sources for religious history.
- Pictures and Photographs: These are images from the past.
- Example: An old black-and-white photo of your town's main road showing only bicycles and no cars.
- Example: Drawings and paintings made long ago.
- Artifacts (Objects): These are old, human-made items found in the ground, in old houses, or in museums.
- Example: Broken pieces of clay pots (pottery) used for cooking.

- Example: Old coins, metal tools, stone axes, beads, and carvings.

Why Do We Learn About the Past? We learn history because it helps us understand why things are the way they are today.

- If you know that a long time ago, people in your village were great farmers, it helps you understand why farming is still important there today.
- It connects us to our roots.

EVALUATION

1. History is the study of _____. (a) future (b) past (c) space
2. Which of these is a source of history? (a) A new toy car (b) A story from your grandfather (c) Tomorrow's weather
3. True or False: A photograph taken last week is a source of history.
4. If you find an old, broken plate in your compound, what kind of source of history is it?
5. Give one reason why it is good to listen to stories from old people.

ASSIGNMENT

- (Oral): Ask the oldest person in your house to tell you one thing about their primary school (e.g., what they played, what they wrote with). Tell the class about it tomorrow.
 - (Practical/Drawing): Look around your house for something old (like a wooden spoon, a stool, or a photo). Draw it in your notebook.
 - (Written): Complete this sentence: "One source of history is _____ because it tells us about _____."

WEEK 2: IMPORTANCE OF HISTORY I.

OBJECTIVES By the end of the lesson, pupils should be able to:

- State three reasons why we study history.
- Explain how history helps us understand our culture.
- Describe how learning from the past helps us make better decisions.

CONTENT

Why Do We Study History? It is Very Useful! History is not just about memorizing old dates and names. It is a useful subject that helps us in our everyday lives today and tomorrow.

To Know Who We Are (Our Identity): History is like a family album for a whole country or community. It tells us where we come from, who our ancestors were, and what they did. This gives us a sense of belonging and pride.

- Example: If you are Yoruba, learning about the old Oyo Empire helps you understand your roots.
- If you are Kalabari, learning about your ancestral canoe houses tells you about your family's trade and bravery.

To Understand and Appreciate Our Culture: Culture is our way of life—our food, language, dressing, music, and festivals. History explains why we do these things.

- Dressing: Why do Hausa men wear flowing gowns (Babanriga)? It's suited for the hot, dry weather of the North. Why do Yoruba women wear Iro and Buba? It is a traditional and respectful style that has been worn for generations.
- Food: Why is Tuwo Shinkafa popular in the North? Because rice grows well there. Why is pounded yam common in the South? Because yam grows well there.
- Festivals: The Argungu Fishing Festival in Kebbi has a history of celebrating the end of conflicts and abundance of fish.

To Learn From Past Mistakes and Make Better Choices: History teaches us lessons. If we know that two communities fought a long and painful war over land, we learn that fighting is bad. Today, we can choose to talk, share, or let the government help settle disputes instead of fighting.

- Simple Example: If you touched a hot pot yesterday and got burnt, that is your personal history. That memory helps you decide to be careful around hot pots today. History makes us wiser.

To See How Life Has Improved (Appreciate Progress): History shows us how things have changed for the better. Long ago, there were no hospitals, so many people died from small sicknesses. There were no cars, so people walked for days to travel. There were no phones to call family far away. Knowing this helps us be thankful for hospitals, cars, and mobile phones today.

EVALUATION

1. Studying history helps us know our _____. (a) future job (b) identity and origin (c) favorite food
2. How does history help us understand why we eat certain foods?
3. If history tells us that fighting destroys communities, what should we choose today?
4. Mention one way life is better today than in the past because of progress.
5. True or False: We study history only to know the dates of old wars.

ASSIGNMENT

- (Written): Write down one cultural festival you know and one reason why people celebrate it.
 - (Oral/Research): Ask your parents: "What is one thing you did when you were my age that children do differently today?" (e.g., fetching water vs. tap water).
 - (Drawing): Draw a "Then and Now" picture of communication. (Then: a letter. Now: a mobile phone).

WEEK 3: IMPORTANCE OF HISTORY II (FAMILY HISTORY).

OBJECTIVES By the end of the lesson, pupils should be able to:

- Define family history.
- Identify who ancestors are.
- Draw a simple family tree.
- Explain the importance of preserving family stories.

CONTENT

What is Family History? Family history is the story of your own family—the people you are related to. It is about your parents, your grandparents, your great-grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins. It tells you where your family came from, what work they did, and the important events in their lives. Your family history is a special part of Nigeria's bigger history.

Who Are Ancestors? Your ancestors are the members of your family who lived a long, long time ago, even before your parents and grandparents were born. Your great-grandparents and great-great-grandparents are your ancestors. They are the "roots" of your family. Knowing about them gives you a sense of belonging and tells you that you are part of a long story.

The Family Tree: A Map of Your Family A family tree is a drawing that looks like a tree and shows how everyone in your family is connected. It helps you see your family relationships clearly.

- Roots: Ancestors (Great-grandparents): They are at the top or bottom, like the foundation.
- Trunk & Branches: Grandparents and Parents.
- Leaves & Fruits: You and Your Siblings/Cousins.

How is Family History Preserved? Oral Tradition! In many Nigerian families, especially long ago, stories were not written in books. They were kept alive through Oral Tradition—the practice of telling stories out loud. Elders would gather children in the evening, under the moonlight or in the parlour. They would tell stories about the family's journey, a brave grandfather who was a hunter, a kind grandmother who healed people with herbs, or how the family got its name. By listening and remembering, the children would later tell their own children, keeping the history alive.

Why is Family History Important?

- It teaches you your family's values (like honesty, hard work, courage).
- It helps you know your relatives and strengthens family love.
- It gives you a personal connection to the past.

EVALUATION

1. Your grandfather's father is your _____. (a) brother (b) ancestor (c) friend
2. What do we call a drawing that shows family connections?
3. How did families in the past pass down their history without books?
4. Why is it important to know your family's story?
5. Look at this simple family tree: . Who are the ancestors in this tree?

ASSIGNMENT

- (Drawing): Draw a simple family tree starting with your grandparents, then your parents, then you and your siblings.

- (Oral Research): Ask a parent or elder for the name of one of your ancestors (e.g., a great-grandparent) and one thing they are remembered for.
 - (Written): Write down the name of your hometown or village. This is an important part of your family's history.

WEEK 4: INTRODUCTION TO NIGERIAN PEOPLES.

OBJECTIVES By the end of the lesson, pupils should be able to:

- Identify Nigeria as a country with many people.
- Define an "ethnic group."
- State the number of ethnic groups in Nigeria (over 250).
- Explain "Unity in Diversity."

CONTENT

Nigeria: A Country of Many, Many People

Nigeria is a very large and populous country in Africa. When we say "populous," it means there are many, many people living here—over 200 million! We are not all the same. We have different faces, speak different languages, wear different clothes, and eat different foods. But despite all these differences, we are all citizens of one country: Nigeria.

What is an Ethnic Group? An ethnic group is a large group of people who share important things that make them feel they belong together. Think of it as a very big family with thousands of members. What do they share?

- Common Language: They speak the same mother tongue (e.g., Hausa, Igbo, Yoruba, Efik, Tiv).
- Common Culture: They share similar traditions, food, music, dance, and festivals.
- Common History: They believe they come from the same ancestors or have lived in the same area for a very long time.
- Common Way of Life: Their traditional jobs, dressing, and greetings might be similar.
- Example: The Yoruba people speak Yoruba, have festivals like Eyo, eat amala, and have a shared history of kingdoms like Oyo and Ife.

Diversity in Nigeria: A Beautiful Mix "Diversity" means having many different types. Nigeria is very rich in cultural diversity. We have:

- Over 250 different ethnic groups.
- Over 500 languages!
- Some ethnic groups have millions of people (these are called Major groups).
- Some have smaller numbers (these are called Minor groups). Every group is important.

Unity in Diversity: Our Great Strength "Unity in Diversity" is a very important saying for Nigeria. It means:

- Unity: We stand together as one nation.
- Diversity: We are made up of many different groups.

Even though we are different (diverse), we live together in peace, work together, and help each other (unity). We must always respect people from other tribes, just as we want them to respect us. Our differences make Nigeria a colorful and interesting place, like a beautiful garden with many types of flowers.

EVALUATION

1. An ethnic group is people who share the same _____ and _____. (Choose two) (a) language (b) favorite football team (c) culture (d) height
2. How many major ethnic groups are in Nigeria? (a) 3 (b) 10 (c) over 250

3. What does "diversity" mean? (a) Everyone is the same (b) There are many different types (c) There is only one type
4. "Unity in Diversity" teaches us to _____ other tribes. (a) fight (b) ignore (c) respect
5. True or False: Speaking different languages means we cannot be one country.

ASSIGNMENT

- (Written): Write down the name of your own ethnic group and one language spoken in Nigeria that is not yours.
 - (Drawing): Draw the Nigerian flag (Green-White-Green) and color it. Write what the two green stripes represent (agriculture, wealth) and the white (peace).
 - (Practical/Oral): Greet a friend or neighbor from a different ethnic group in their language (e.g., "Sannu" for Hausa, "Kedu" for Igbo, "Bawo ni" for Yoruba).

WEEK 5: ASSESSMENT.

OBJECTIVES By the end of the lesson, pupils should be able to:

- Answer questions covering topics from Week 1 to Week 4.

CONTENT

Assessment: The teacher will administer a written test covering Meaning of History, Sources of History, Family Trees, and Nigerian Ethnic Groups. The teacher should ensure the test has different types of questions to check for understanding:

- Multiple Choice Questions (Choose the correct answer): Good for checking if pupils remember key facts.
- Fill-in-the-Blank Sentences: Good for checking if pupils know specific words.
- True or False Questions: Good for checking if pupils can identify correct ideas.
- Simple Short Answer Questions: Good for checking if pupils can explain ideas in their own words.
- Matching Questions: Good for connecting ideas (e.g., match source of history to its example).

EVALUATION

Grading and corrections. The teacher will mark the tests, identify topics where many pupils made mistakes, and plan to re-teach those areas.

ASSIGNMENT

- Look at your marked test. Find one question you got right and draw a smiley face next to it.
- Find one question you got wrong. Write the correct answer next to it.
- Show your test to your parents and tell them one thing you learned about Nigerian history.

Other Important Ethnic Groups Nigeria is not only about these three. There are many other important and beautiful cultures. Here are a few more:

- Kanuri: Live mostly in the North-East (Borno State).
- Ijaw: Live in the riverine (water) areas of the South-South (Bayelsa, Rivers).
- Tiv: Live in the North-Central region (Benue State).

CONTENT

Our Local Community: A Mini-Nigeria (Teacher: Adapt this section to your specific school location - e.g., Lagos, Kano, Enugu, Port Harcourt, Aba, Ibadan.)

WEEK 9: PEOPLES AND PLACES IN THE COMMUNITY III (ORIGINS).

OBJECTIVES By the end of the lesson, pupils should be able to:

- Tell a simple story about how their community was founded.
- Define migration simply.
- Explain why people settle in certain places (water, safety, trade).
- Identify the "Founding Fathers" of the community.

CONTENT

How Did Our Town Begin? Every Place Has a Story

Just like every person has a birthday, every town and village has a story of how it started. This story is part of our local history.

What is Migration? Long, long ago, people did not always stay in one place forever. Migration means the movement of people from one place to another to live. People moved in groups, often walking for many days.

Why Did People Move and Settle?

People settled in a new place when they found things that made life easier and safer:

- Water: They needed water to drink, cook, and farm. So they settled near rivers, streams, or lakes.
- Good Land: They needed fertile land for farming to grow crops like yam, cassava, and maize.
- Safety: They looked for places that were easy to defend, like hilltops or areas surrounded by forests, to protect themselves from wild animals or enemies.
- Trade: Some settled where roads crossed or near rivers that could be used for trading goods with other communities.

The Story of [Insert Community Name] (Teacher: Insert specific local history here. Use a simple, story-like format. Example for a generic town):

"Many, many years ago, a brave hunter named [Founder's Name] was searching for game in the forest. After walking for days, he found a place with a clean river and flat, fertile land. The river had lots of fish, and the soil was good for farming. He thought, 'This is a good place to live!' He went back to his old village and told his family and friends about this wonderful new land. They all agreed to follow him. They packed their belongings and moved to this new place. They built the first huts, cleared the land for farms, and started a new life. They named the new settlement after [Explain name: e.g., the founder, a local tree, a feature like 'Abeokuta' (under the rock) or 'Oguta' (on the hill)]."

The first people who built the town are called the founders or settlers. We remember them because they started our community.

EVALUATION

1. What does migration mean?
2. Why was it important for early settlers to live near a river? Give two reasons.
3. The first people to build a new town are called _____.
4. What are two things (resources) that would make a new place good for settling?
5. (Teacher to ask based on local history): Who is known as the founder of our community?
6. OR What is our town's name believed to mean?

ASSIGNMENT

- (Oral History): Ask your parents or an elder: "Can you tell me the story of how this town/village was started?"
 - (Written): Find out what the name of your town or street means. Write it down.
 - (Drawing): Draw a picture showing why a place is good for settlement (include a river, trees for building/farming, and safe hills).

WEEK 10: TOLERANCE AND NATIONAL UNITY.

OBJECTIVES By the end of the lesson, pupils should be able to:

- Define tolerance.
- Explain why we must respect other ethnic groups.
- Identify "National Unity" as being one strong country.
- List ways we can celebrate our diversity.

CONTENT

What is Tolerance? Accepting Our Differences

Tolerance means accepting and respecting other people even when they are different from you. It means you do not laugh at, bully, or hate someone because of their tribe, religion, language, or how they dress.

- Example: If your friend is fasting during Ramadan and cannot eat at lunch, you tolerate and respect their practice. You don't force them to eat.
- Example: If your neighbour wears a different type of traditional attire, you admire its beauty instead of making fun of it.

Why We Must Respect Other Ethnic Groups

Nigeria has over 200 million people from over 250 groups. If everyone only cared about their own group and disrespected others, there would be constant fighting and trouble. Respect is the glue that holds us together. Respecting others means:

- Not making fun of their language or accent.
- Respecting their place of worship.
- Appreciating their cultural festivals and food.

What is National Unity?

National Unity means all Nigerians coming together as one strong and peaceful country, despite our differences. It means we put "Nigeria" first before our individual tribes or states.

- We all sing the same National Anthem.
- We all pledge to the same National Pledge.
- We all respect the same Green-White-Green flag.
- When our national football team, the Super Eagles, plays, we all support them as Nigerians.

Celebrating Our Diversity: It Makes Us Stronger

We don't just tolerate our differences; we can celebrate them! This makes Nigeria a fun and interesting place.

How to Celebrate Diversity:

- Taste: Try food from other tribes (e.g., a Yoruba child tasting Tuwo, an Hausa child tasting Jollof rice).
- Learn: Learn how to say "Hello," "Thank you," and "Goodbye" in a friend's language.
- Wear: On Cultural Day in school, wear a traditional attire from a tribe that is not your own.
- Share: Tell your friends about your own culture and listen to them talk about theirs.

EVALUATION

1. Tolerance means to _____ people who are different from you. (a) fight (b) accept and respect (c) ignore
2. Why is national unity important for Nigeria?
3. Complete this sentence: "We are all one as _____."
4. How can you show respect to a friend who celebrates a different festival?
5. Which song do all Nigerians sing to show unity?

ASSIGNMENT

- (Oral/Learning): Learn how to say "Good morning" in one Nigerian language that is not your own. Practice it with a friend tomorrow.
- (Drawing): Draw a picture of yourself and a friend from a different ethnic group holding hands. Write a caption: "Together in Unity".
- (Written/Memorization): Write down the first line of the Nigerian National Anthem: "Arise, O compatriots..."

WEEK 11: REVIEW.

- Answer questions on History, Ethnic Groups, and Unity.

CONTENT

A hero is a man who is admired by many people for doing something very brave, good, or great to help others or his country. He does not do it for money or fame, but because it is the right thing to do.

A heroine is a woman who does the same kind of brave and great things. She is a female hero.

Think of people you admire because they help others. A hero/heroine is like a super helper in real life, but without a cape or superpowers. They use their courage, kindness, and hard work.

What Makes Someone a Hero or Heroine? (Characteristics)

Heroes and heroines are special because they have these good qualities:

- Bravery/Courage: They are not afraid to do what is right, even when it is scary or difficult.
- Example: A firefighter who runs into a burning building to save a child is brave.

Why Do We Remember and Celebrate Heroes?

We remember heroes to:

WEEK 1: INTRODUCTION TO TRADITIONAL AUTHORITY.

OBJECTIVES By the end of the lesson, pupils should be able to:

- Define traditional authority.
- Explain the status of traditional rulers before the colonial era.
- State three importance of traditional rulers.
- Demonstrate how to show respect for traditional authority.

CONTENT

What is Traditional Authority?

Traditional authority is the respected power and leadership held by our traditional rulers.

These are kings, queens, emirs, and chiefs who lead people not because they won an election, but because it is the custom and tradition of their people. Their right to rule is based on history, culture, and the belief that they are connected to the ancestors.

Think of it like leadership in your family. Your father or the oldest uncle might be the head because family tradition says so. Traditional rulers are like the fathers and mothers of very large communities or ethnic groups.

Traditional Rulers Long Ago (Before the White Men Came)

Long before the British came to Nigeria (this period is called pre-colonial times), traditional rulers were the main leaders. They had full authority in their kingdoms and villages.

- They were the Government: They made the rules and laws for their people.
- They were the Judges: They settled serious disputes, like arguments over land or marriage.
- They were the Army Commanders: They decided when to defend the community or go to war.
- They were the Chief Priests: In many places, they led important religious ceremonies and festivals.
- Their Word Was Law: People obeyed their commands because they were seen as wise and chosen by custom and the gods.

Why Are Traditional Rulers Still Important Today?

Even though we now have elected presidents and governors, traditional rulers remain very important because:

- Custodians of Culture: They are the chief keepers of our traditions. They lead festivals (like Durbar, Ofala, Igue), wear traditional regalia, and speak our languages. They make sure our beautiful culture does not die.
- Peace Makers and Advisers: They help settle quarrels within families and communities before they become big fights. They also advise the modern government on what their people need.
- A Link to Our Past and Ancestors: They represent a long line of leaders. When we see the Ooni of Ife or the Sultan of Sokoto, we remember the great history of our people. They connect us to our roots.

Showing Respect for Traditional Authority

We show respect to our traditional rulers because they symbolize our heritage and unity. Respect can be shown by:

- Proper Greeting: Bowing, curtsying, prostrating, or kneeling according to your culture when you see them.
- Listening: Paying attention when they speak or give advice.
- Using Respectful Titles: Calling them "Your Majesty," "Your Royal Highness," "Kabiyesi," or "Sarki."
- Good Behavior: Not telling lies about them or being rude in their presence.

EVALUATION

1. Traditional authority is based on _____ and _____. (a) election votes (b) custom and history (c) personal wealth
2. Before colonialism, who made the laws in a community?
3. Which of these is NOT a role of a traditional ruler today? (a) Keeping culture alive (b) Settling family quarrels (c) Arresting people for the police
4. How do people in your culture greet a traditional ruler to show respect?
5. Why is a traditional ruler called a "Custodian of Culture"?

ASSIGNMENT

- (Oral Research): Ask your parents: "What is the title of the traditional ruler of our hometown?" (e.g., Oba, Emir, Obi).
 - (Drawing): Draw one symbol of traditional authority (e.g., a crown, a staff of office, a beaded necklace).

Titles of Traditional Rulers in Major Groups

Who Are Traditional Title Holders?

- Help the Community: They use their money or time to build a school, hospital, or water project.
- Are Brave or Wise: In the past, great warriors or wise elders got titles. Today, knowledgeable professionals (like doctors, lawyers) might be honored.
- Come from a Chiefly Family: Sometimes, titles are inherited in certain families.

There is a big ceremony called an investiture where the king presents the new chief with symbols of office like a staff, a special cap, beads, or a horse tail (Irukere).

Why Are Title Holders Important? Title holders are the "Eyes, Ears, and Hands" of the king.
